YOUTH PROVED NO BARRIER

An Eloping Couple Outwit License Clerk and Parents.

All Is Lovely With Bride and Groom, fixed by the governor.

Schuiz was found guilty on Sunday. but There May Be Trouble for Their Obliging Friend.

If Clerk of the Court Young decides to look into the matter, there is trouble in store for some one in regard to a marriage license which was issued Saturday At that time a young man whose name could not be learned called at the the city half to procure a license for Henry E. Coppertifice, whose age he gave as twentywo, and Miss Ethel Squart, who, he said, was mineteen.

The young mun for whom the license was produced is the son of Henry Copperthite, the proprietor of the Connecticut Pre Company, and, it is said, is only nine teen years old. Mr. Coppertuite, Jr., refuses to divulge the name of the young man who took out the license, but stated that the friend was not to biame in the matter. Mr. Copper-thite this been waiting on Miss Stuart for two years, and both are employed by the Connecticut Pie Compony. The parents on both sides objected to the marriage on account of the youthfuiness of the ouple, but this did not deter them from getting married. Saturday night Miss Ethel donned a fetching gown of lavender organdie and her pretty face was set off by a large white hat and after bidding her mauspecting parents good-by, she joined Henry, and together they visited the residence of Rev. Dr. Charles Buck, pastor of St. John's Church, Georgetown where they were married. As they entered the house of the clergyman a friend saw them and informed the groom's parents, who harried to the scene arriving just as Mr. and Mrs. Coppertiate were receiving congratulations.

The parents of both parties have now become reconciled to the marriage, and the happy couple are stopping at the bride's tome on Valley street.

This investigation was called forth by the strenuous complaints from Republican officescekers who found the doors closed to them when they reached Washington after Mr. McKinley's inauguration. They wrote about it to the newspapers and to their Congressmen and Senators, accusing the last Administration of having put everything under the civil service classification that was not already there, for the partisan purpose of keeping Mr. Cleveland's friends in office.

Their animosity was directed chiefly toward the Government Printing Office. various departments, and the positions of laborers and others below the regular class: fied civil service. These were the prin-cipal places included in Mr. Cleveland's lest civil service reform proclamation. The officesecters and their friends did not confine themselves to attacking these places however. They declared themselves vio lently against the whole civil service re form system, and many of them advocated going back to the spoils system itself or a long way toward that officesegkers' Paradise.

These gentlemen werein Washington and out of work, with nothing on their lands except frequent calls on the President and their influence, and they spent a great deal of their time in talking about the iniquities of civil service reform from the standpoint of the outs. When Senator Pritchard called his committee together he frankly told a Times reporter that he was in favor of civil service reform law, but that he believed that many beneficial changes might George Pettey, who was recently elected chief engineer of the fire department, was be made in the present system. He seem ed especially in favor of investigating the offices and places which Mr. Cleveland had included in his last dalliance with the reform law.

A large number of witnesses have been examined since the meetings began. Most of them were from the Government Printing Office, and they expressed themselves on both sides of the question as to whether the present system is the best for obtain ing results in the office. A good many men who were formerly employed in theoffice were also examined, and they were of the opinion that the system was wrong

Public Printer Palmer's testimony, which coupled parts of two or three meetings of the committee, was at first very violently opposed to the whole reform system and its results. Toward the last, however, he acknowledged that he had not given the system a thorough trial, and that he was probably likely to find many good points in it as time went on.

"My left ear was quite deaf. "After being under treatment some time, my hearing returned to me suddenly. "Last Sunday I heard with my right ear, the ear that had been stone deaf, the ticking of my watch, and that ear is now more acute than the left.

"My dealness began in my left ear ten years ago and, growing worse gradually, in time it extended to the right ear My right ear became deaf very rapidly and in a short while stopped up entirely and lost all sense of sound.

"My deafness was a constant source or annoyance to me, both in business and social matters. It was difficult for me to wait upon customers; embarrassed me in trying to converse with my friends. It was very hard to understand when spoken to and I was always asking people to repeat, and then to add to my discomfort there was a rumbling noise in my head that at times almost drove me wild.

"The unnatural noise in my head has been stopped and I bear again distinctly.
